I CO CO

To Our Principal

Allan Davis

whose forceful personality has been largely instrumental in building up and sustaining the good name of Business High School, we, the Graduating Classes of February and June, 1927, affectionately dedicate this our Year Book

Miss May P. Bradshaw

Our mentor and our friend all these four years.

She has encouraged us when we needed encouragement—pulling us out of the mire of F's and P's; scolded us when we needed scolding, and laughed with us for any good reason at all.

Poem

Four years of working, four years of play,
Four years of friendships, happy and gay,
Four years of tears, of heartaches and trials,
Of labors, and triumphs, of joys, and of smiles—
Four years have ended, our dreams have come true,
Our goal has been gained; our work here is through.

We'll go forth as fighters, as workers, for here
We've learned the true way; we've learned how to steer
Our ship through the turbulent waters of life—
Through hardships, temptations, and all of the strife
That's a test for the fearless, the strongest alive,
That only the true and the fit will survive.

We've worked here together, we've played, and we've fought, We've loved and we've hated, but always we've sought For the good and the true, the best, and the right; And the lesson we've learned is that right makes might—That truth and sincerity, honesty, love, Are ours to cherish, our boon from above.

And so we go forth, to conquer anew,

Eager to prove what we know we can do;

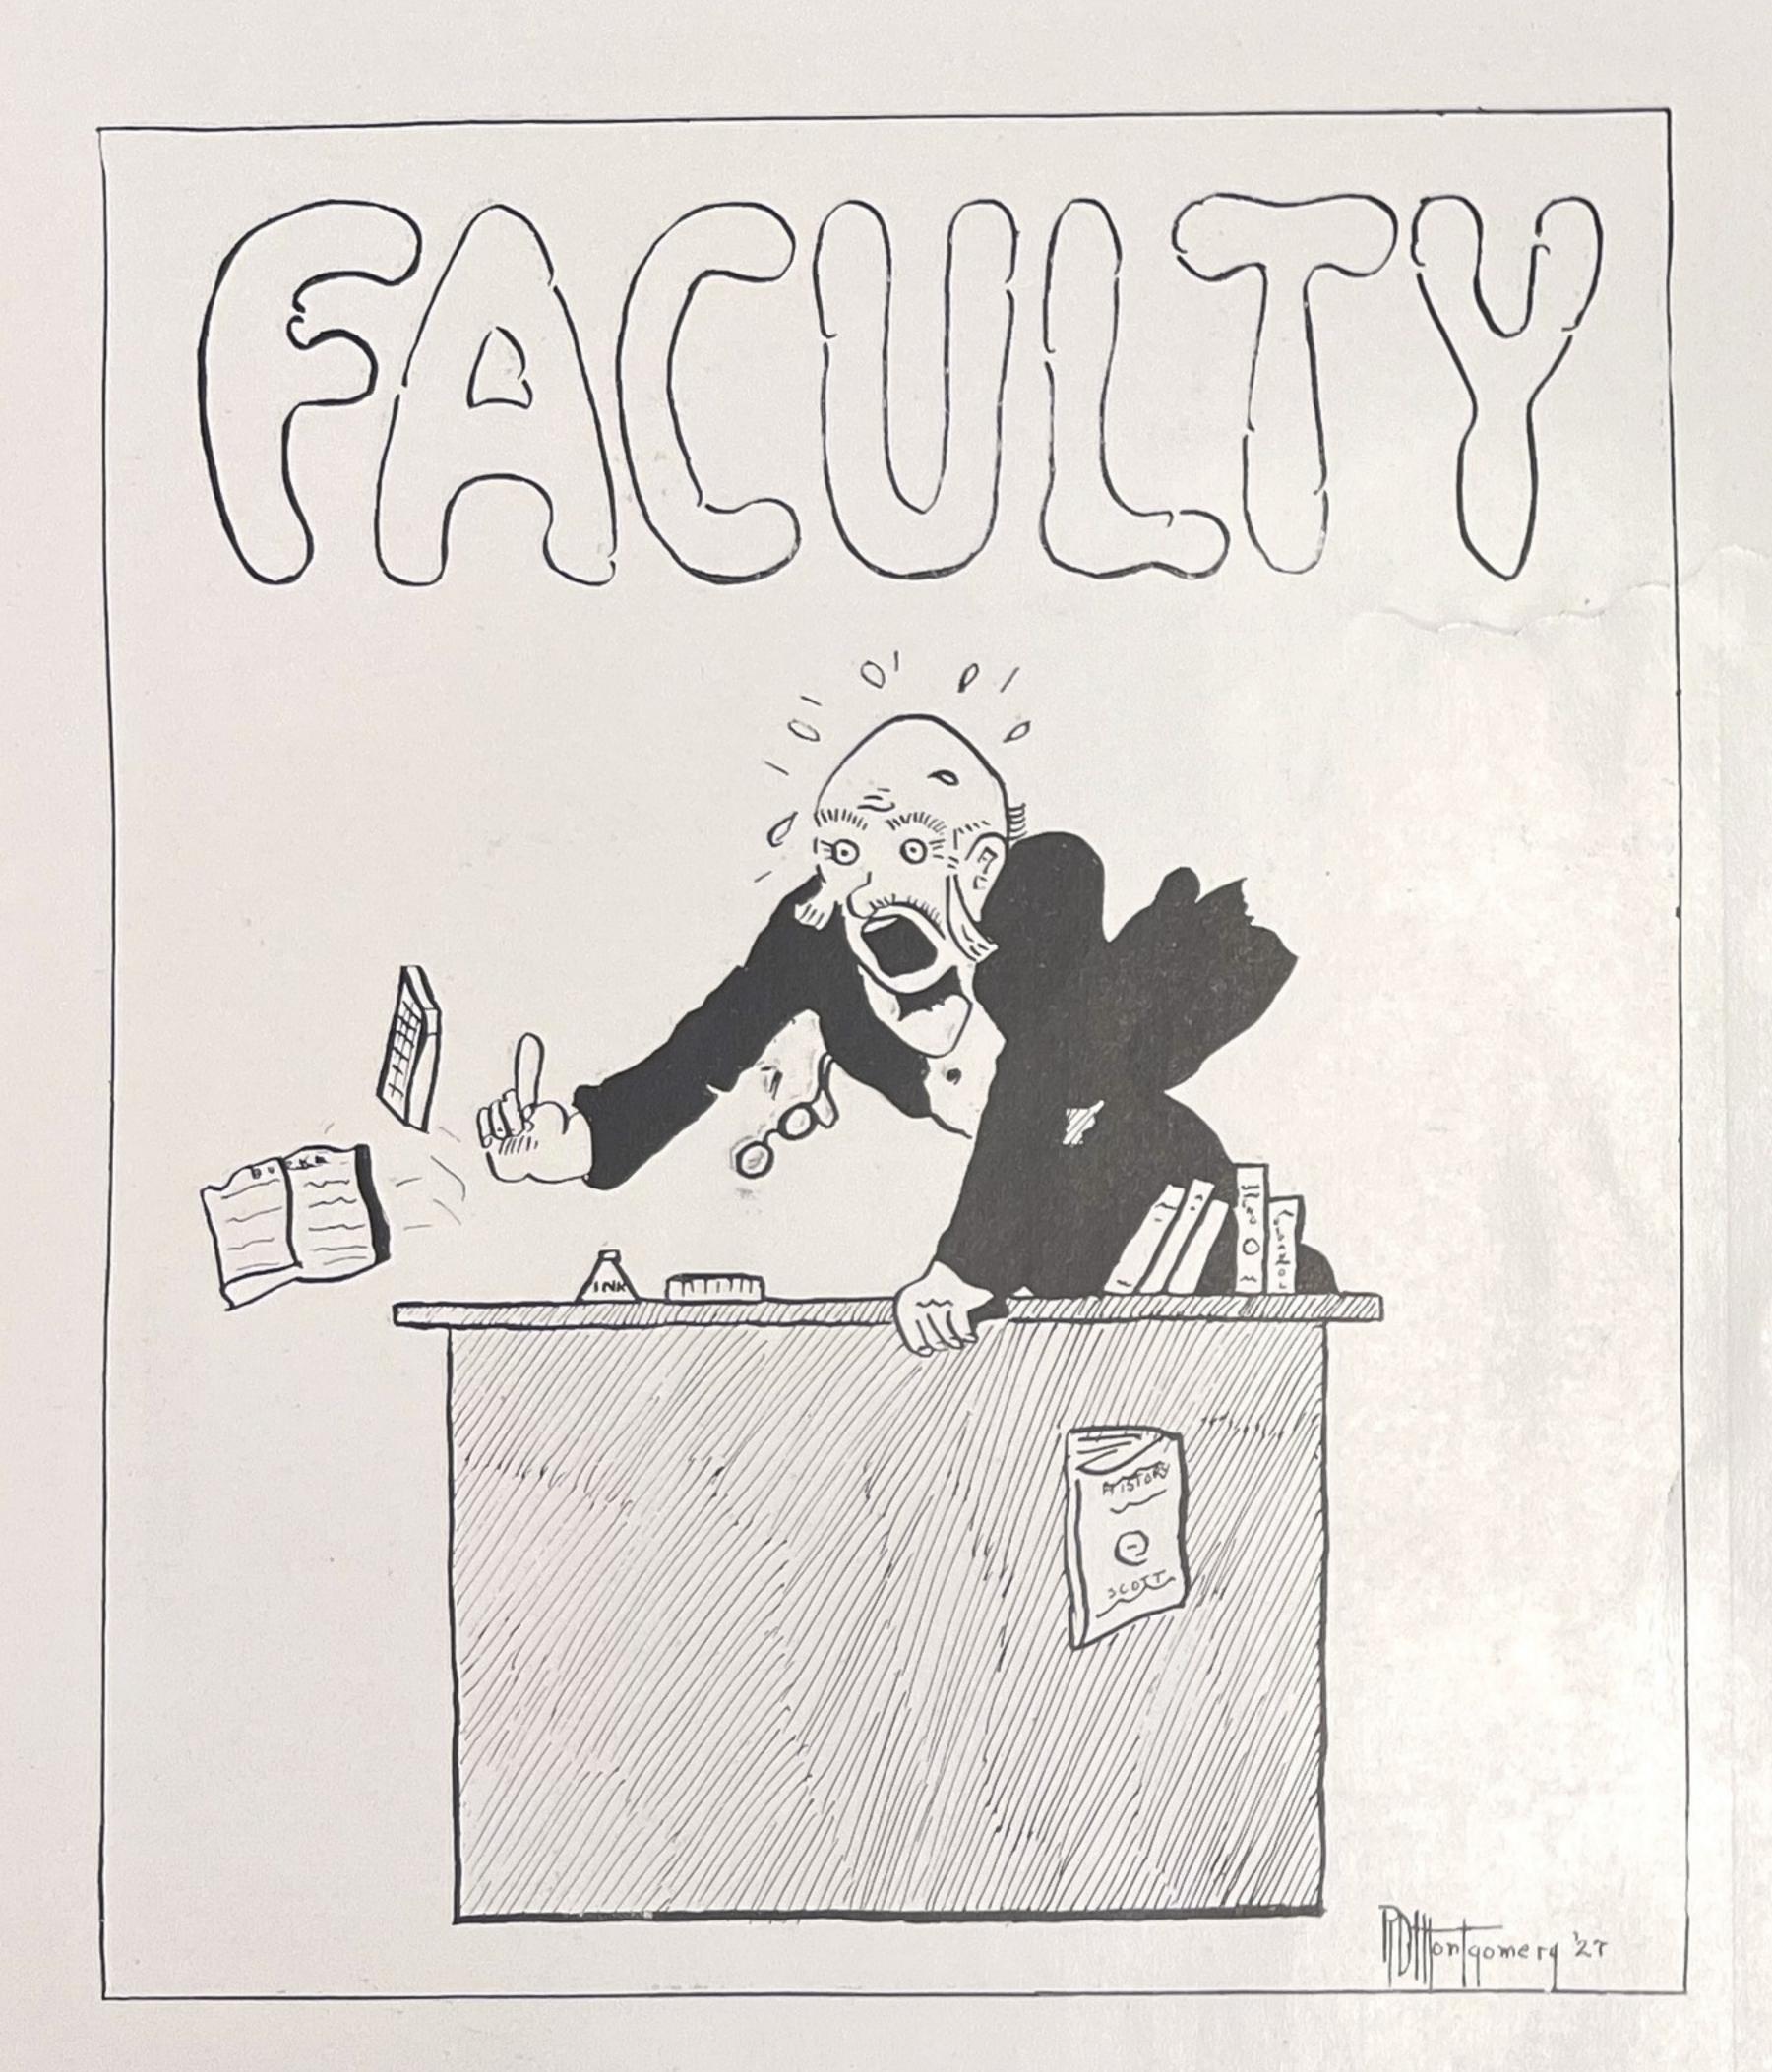

Eager to add to the glory and fame

Of the School that is dear to our hearts; and proclaim

To the world all the wisdom and truth we have learned

In the straight path of knowledge where now we have turned.

VIRGINIA PARRY, Class of June.

The Class of February

OUR years ago about two hundred Freshmen, probably the freshest class of Freshmen that ever enrolled, entered the Business High School; but, under the kind guidance of the Sophomores, they soon learned to know their places, and now graduate a most sophisticated class.

Not waiting to join the various clubs and activities before getting down to the business of "passing," many of them developed into worth-while students. Among these were Virginia Kettley and Isabelle Heffner, who won scholarship medals.

The boy members of the class participated in every activity of the school, the most prominent being: Frank Prevail, Head Bookkeeper of the B. H. S. Bank, Editor of the Balance Sheet, and winner of three medals; Pat Bradley, noted for his Glee Club talent; Randy Shreve, Captain of the Football Squad; and Reds Mulligan, Al Harrington, Tony Stewart, and Al Gelfeld, who soon made their presence known on the school basketball, baseball, and football teams. When our four years came to an end, there was but one Cadet left, although all of the boys had been in the corps previously. Bill Howe, our remaining Cadet, was a Sergeant. McGarraghy had been on the military staff, Gelfeld and Harrington had been Sergeants, and Don Penn an active member of the corps.

The girls who stood out in the sports were: Fede Crovato, Thelma Wallace, Captain of the Baseball Team; Evelyn Forney, Amy Hunter, Isabelle Heffner, and Catherine Green.

Virginia Kettley and Catherine Green served as secretaries of the Girls' Auxiliary and the Amikeco Club.

The Class of February, 1927, is proud of its record, and believes that it will be a long time before any other class lives up to the high standard set by it. We go confidently out into the world, prepared for the fray by the Business High School and its faculty.

CATHERINE GREEN.

To Business

No marble colonnades we knew,
Nor stately terraces of green;
Though pleasing to the eye they be,
These are mere outward, shadowy things,
Scarce to be remembered.
Good fellowship, tried friends to greet,
Memories of well spent days,
Hope undaunted by defeat—
These at thy shrine we lay.

Class Poem

Four long years have passed and gone, Years of toil and years of fun, Hours of study and hours of joy, Gone—e're yet they seemed begun.

As we ponder and delve in days gone by,
Our dreams, hopes to recover,
We awake to the thought that those days so dear—
The best in our lives—are over.

Though triumph we may—as triumph we must,
In the hard, earnest battle of life,
We'll never forget 'twas Business High
That fitted us for the strife.

Though far away in time and space,
We'll keep thy memories, fond and true,
With always a longing to come back
To friends, and things we used to do.

The February Class of Twenty-seven
Here bids you sad farewell;
Though we may travel far away,
Your praise our lips shall tell.

AMY BELLE HUNTER,

February Class 1927

Valedictory

"Fight on, my men," says Sir Andrew Barton,

"I'm hurt but I am not slaine;

I'll lie me down and bleed awhile

And then I'll rise and fight againe"

HAT is the lesson which we, the February Class of 1927, carry with us as we bid farewell to our school—the lesson of loyalty and courage. Every human being who ever lived is loyal to some one thing either by definite choice or because of a subconscious desire. The thing may be great or it may be small, but it represents an aim—a purpose in life. The higher that aim, the harder it is to attain and the more worth struggling for. A selfish aim leads inevitably to destruction. One of the most noted men in the world's history proves this to us by his life, his rise to power and his defeat,-Napoleon, a man capable of superhuman achievements; a man who concentrated all his faculties on a single purpose; a man who accepted no compromise; a man who let nothing stand in the way of his ambition. His uncompromising attitude, his will-power, and his loyalty compel admiration. Napoleon was never defeated in battle until Waterloo, and that, his one defeat, was not the result of weakness of purpose, but was the inevitable result of his choice. Destruction awaited him from the moment he chose personal ambition as his goal. His life teaches us two lessons—lessons that are particularly pertinent to us starting out. He typifies failure. He typifies success. He typifies for us the failure that awaits all whose purpose is wrong. He typifies for us the success that is bound to accompany singleness of purpose and undaunted courage.

Few men achieve greatness. The majority of people never definitely pick a loyalty. They never say to themselves, "I will do this thing and nothing will stand in my way." Those who decide on a single purpose seldom go more than halfway. They will not accept uncompromisingly any hardship to attain that end. Those who have achieved are those who carried their purpose against all obstacles. If we seem to be defeated at every turn, we must start again; for we gain from a struggle the strength of the difficulty overcome. It is the last battle that decides the victory. To rise unconquered from every apparent defeat brings a courage that is its own reward.

My classmates, this is the lesson which we must carry with us as we bid farewell to Business High School—the lesson of loyalty and courage. We will be on the road to achievement when we can say:

"I'm hurt but I am not slaine;
I'll lie me down and bleed awhile
And then I'll rise and fight againe."

VIRGINIA KETTLEY.

June Class History

HEN we came to Business High School four years ago, our graduation night looked like a distant star shining down on us. No matter how distant it seemed, it was our one goal. Emerson said, "Hitch your wagon to a star." So we did.

About four hundred of us came from the various graded schools throughout the city, and we were four hundred of the most desolate, wide-eyed persons that you ever saw. Hardly anyone noticed us. We just stood in the halls, feeling like herded cattle, waiting to be told where to go and what to do. Occasionally a Senior would glare at us and remark something about the rookies getting smaller every year, and that some day their mothers would be bringing them to school in baby carriages. We didn't mind that, though. At least, someone noticed us enough to speak of us. That year we toiled patiently away at our new studies. We didn't see any sense in learning shorthand; it looked like chicken scratching; but we liked hammering on the typewriters, because they were something new to play with.

The next year it suddenly dawned upon us that we were no longer "rookies," but sophisticated Sophomores. It was a grand and glorious feeling to realize that someone was beneath us, whom we could call "rookie." We began to feel quite at home by this time, and to take an interest in the school activities. Ethel Bonde and Marie Poston made a name for themselves in basketball, and Edward Marosy managed to get on the baseball team and showed the school that he was twice as good as Walter Johnson. Then there were Vernon Snoots and Harry Slye, who joined the Cadets, first, because they couldn't get out of it, and, second, to correct pigeon-toes and humped shoulders. We became acquainted with the teachers and knew exactly how much we could "get away with" with each of them, and which ones weren't to be fooled with. We also knew enough not to bump into Mr. Davis coming around a corner on the wrong side of the corridor. It was in this year that our class organized the L. O. F. Club and the Indoor-Outdoor Club. Our school won the Brown University Cup for the spring play, "The Tailor-Made Man."

The next year we climbed up a step, and were Juniors—wise and solemn Juniors. A great many of our class graduated from a two-year course, and so left us less than half in number than when we came. We worked hard in our Junior Year, because we were getting closer to our goal, and this spurred us on. We became active in the school. Grace Wooden began to show her talent in dramatics. From the time of the staging of "The Riddle of Isis," she has held leading parts in all of the school plays, some of which were "A Tailor-Made Man," "Engaged," and "Once in a Blue Moon." She has also been President of the Dramatic Club and President of the Girls' Auxiliary. Marie Poston danced her way onto the stage in "Three Pills in a Bottle." She was also Chairman of the Committee on Selection of Plays. Vernon Snoots, by this time an officer in the Cadets, played in "Three Pills in a Bottle," "The Riddle of Isis," and "A Tailor-Made Man." Calvin Brown was Major of Cadets and President of the Bank. Samuel Felker, our worthy President, was also a Cadet officer and Vice-President of the Bank. We worked hard in the Glee Clubs and Orchestra under Miss Thompson. Our fine jazz band played at the Auxiliary and Friendship Club dances.

If Homer were one of us, he would have said that the next year dawned "rosy-fingered," for we were high and mighty Seniors with our star plainly in view. We were still only Seventh Semester Seniors and not noticed quite so much as the Eighth Semester ones. However, after we bade bon voyage to the February Graduating Class, we began to shine. Lavinia Smith became President of the Amikeco Club; Marion Hayes, Marion Decker, and Evelyn Rilev. editors of the Balance Sheet, and Jack Romagna and Joseph Blendman, city editors of the Balance Sheet. Sylvia Mink was secretary to Mrs. Butts, of the Employment Department, and also Business Manager of the Balance Sheet. Randolph Shreve won fame as Captain of the Football Team. James Simmers was Secretary of the newly organized Boxing Team. Lois Thompson, Lillian Ingram, and William O'Neal ran the Book Shop successfully. Marie Poston, Grace Wooden, Esther Huntington, and James Simmers played leading parts in the spring play, "The Dummy." We thought that the world was ours, or rather the school was. We began to wear our Senior hats, which everyone scribbled all over with his autograph; to wear our graduation rings, to rock on our toes, to glare at rookies, to hurry down the corridors as if on some very important errand, and to be late for classes, as we thought was our privilege. Finally, after the necessary scares the teachers gave us by challenges and all of that, we have reached our goal, nearly one hundred strong!

The Certificate Class of February

HE Two-Year Class of February, 1927, leaves Business High with feelings both of regret and pride.

In February, 1925, we opened accounts with the Business High School. The debit side of our ledgers soon began to reveal numerous charges against us, for we were only "rookies" and made their usual mistakes. The school work seemed strange and difficult at first, and most of our entries had to be made on the debit side. Then came the time when we were no longer "rookies," but taking an active part in school life. More entries were made on the credit side of the ledger, and every time one of our members was enrolled in some one of the school activities these credits grew. Our class was represented in the Orchestra, Girls' Auxiliary, Amikeco Club, the Glee Clubs, Football, and other athletic activities. When graduation time came, we were proud to find that our books balanced and that we had a large net profit.

The formation of friendships and the preparation for our life work which this school has made possible we consider a great asset; and the memory of dear old Business High will ever remain with us after business life has scattered us far and wide.

The Certificate Class of June

ANY of the two-year graduates of 1927 have spent only one year at Business, having completed the first year at Junior High School. But when they entered this school in September, 1926, it did not take them long to become acquainted with the students who had already spent a year here, and very soon the class had become a single unit, working toward that longed-for-goal, graduation. We have worked hard, we two-year people, but have found time to help out in all the school activities and also to enjoy the social life of the school. We have made friends among teachers and students whom we dislike to leave. However, a good majority of us have decided to return for two more years; and so we will not say good-bye, but au revoir.

The Balance Sheet

N this, our thirty-first year of the Balance Sheet, we have succeeded in putting out our five regular issues, despite the handicap of new faculty advisors, editors, and reporters.

We, the silent workers, have stolen away to Aunt Busy in Room 62, where we have written in story, poem, news, and gossip 140,000 words. There we have developed our talents in managing, planning, writing, filing, and reporting all that the rest of the school has been so busy doing. The Balance Sheet has been our safety valve and outlet, although all of our work has been without noise. We make no bows before the footlights; there have been no school yells for us and no bouquets. Our pleasure has been in creating and not in applause.

When we could escape from "Twelve Tons" or "Zaragueta," we rushed to the old Royal to plug away at our tragedy or sonnet. Our stories have been blurred with the sound of the crashing jazz orchestra, the yelling of a football squad in the gym, or the strains of "Gypsy Sweetheart" from the Assembly Hall. Our sonnets were mixed with gasoline from the Repair Shop in 42 and the monotonous counting of "A-S-D-F, space; A-S-D-F" in the Freshman 46 typing class.

However, we have learned much and enjoyed our work. It was great sport to have a magazine all our own. We may grow up some day and become real editors, like Noyes of the Star.

Our Business Manager sold twenty-five pages of advertising; secured a circulation of 700; obtained four new desk-lights; provided us with three magazines for editors; and sent two delegates, Ida Bush and Helen Dolan, to the Convention of the Columbia University Press in New York on March 11 and 12. We have ventured to make a few changes in our columns, too. We have had try-outs on "City News," "All About the Town," "Travel and Adventure," with correspondents in England, Ireland, Germany, Mexico, and Cuba, and, best of all, for the girls, we have introduced our dear Aunt Busy.

Some day in that new building we hope to have our own printing press and printing teacher with a special class in journalism.

We have worked hard, but on some rare occasions we have gotten a bit hilarious and given teas, parties, and dances for Christmas or to mark the end of the semester. We have had good times together with our bally old Englishman and sober Aunt Busy. There is Evelyn, who sees stars at Christmas; and Roma, who wanders toward Paradise; and Ida, who supplies endless jingles; and Babe, and Frances, and Shirley, and Colleen, who have worked like real journalists.

Many of us will graduate in June, and we now give over our work to the new students, wishing them great success and the same joy in their hearts that we have felt over the clean, printed page.

Library

HE Library contains about 4,000 books. In addition to these, about 600 a year are borrowed from the Public Library. It is one of the busiest places in the school and all pupils are welcomed, from the Freshman up to the Senior. The circulations number about 2,000 a month.

With the help of the Pupil Assistant, who gives two periods during the school day and one after school as well, the Library is open all day, including lunch hour and the eighth period.

Second Battalion, Second Regiment

HIS is the title that followed the name, "Major Calvin Brown," during this past cadet year, a title which has followed the names of the majors at Business High School for over thirty years. It is indeed with pride that the Military Committee, composed of Miss

F. T. Judge, Chairman, and Miss H. M. White, have watched this battalion. They have been instrumental in the culmination of a struggle which has lasted five years—a struggle to give to the Washington High School Cadet Corps a Business High School battalion composed of men serving under voluntary enlistments.

The Military Committee decided this year to put the Cadets on an equal basis with the sports of the school by having only those boys join the corps who really wanted to do so. This program worked out admirably, for the two Companies, E and I, have shown a vim and zest in their drill that are possible only when men have their whole interest centered in the Cadet Corps. This has come about, to an extent, by the fine spirit and competence in learning exhibited by the February Cadets.

The most important single factor in the success of our battalion is in the person of Captain David B. Van Pelt, Military Instructor of the Second Regiment. Captain Van Pelt has been successful in conveying his untiring enthusiasm and conscientious efforts for the Cadet Corps to the men themselves, and has won the respect and admiration of every cadet in the regiment. He is well qualified to hold the position of Military Instructor, having been a captain under fire in the World War. Captain Van Pelt is considered an authority on war games also, and was successful in tutoring the winning war game team of the brigade at Tech.

Perhaps it would not be amiss at this time to state a few of the genuine pleasures and good times that the members of the two companies derived from their association with the Cadet Corps.

The chief value derived from the Cadet Corps was the building up both in mind and in body of 'the school soldiers' and the making of friendships. Perhaps there is no better place to form a lifetime acquaintance than in a cadet company, in the biting cold of winter, when the sharp winds are doing their best to make one numb all over; or when one is marching along in a rain and is soaked to the skin; or in the scorching hot sun when thirst and fatigue are having a race to see which one can finish him first.

But all was not work in the Cadet Corps. There were competitions between the companies which were witnessed by the whole student body of the school (with the girls a predominant factor in making "that certain person" do his best); there were dances with refreshments, given by the Girls' Auxiliary; there were treats of doughnuts and cocoa with candy canes which tasted even better because of the cold outside and of their having been handed out by the prettiest and most popular girls in the school; there were parade drills at which the famed Tech Band played, and which made those little rookies feel as though they were every inch "West Pointers"; there was the time when every cadet, from rookie to the smiling Major, had his day—the day when the armbands came out; and, finally, the greatest thrill of all—that of marching on the competitive drill field at American League Park, with the stands cheering wildly. These are the times that one will never forget.

And so the 1926-27 cadet year has passed, but it will forever be reincarnated in the hearts and memories of those one hundred and ten young men who formed the "Second Battalion, Second Regiment."

Company "E" Business High School

When Company "E" marched on the field in the afternoon of May 25 at 2:30 as the exhibition company of Business High School, and bravely put forth its challenge for the coveted red ribbons which signify the first place company, it carried the well wishes of the whole student body which was assembled to cheer for their representatives on the drill field. And well might they cheer. Company "E" is the only company at Business High School which has worn the coveted red ribbons.

The record of Company "E" is an enviable one. In 1909, Captain Dulin was rewarded for the work of his company by seeing it win the drill that year. In 1914, Captain Fred Conner had the Allison Naylor Medal pinned on his breast as a reward for having the best company in the brigade. In 1919, Captain Clayton Espey carried off third place honors in the drill, and the discipline that was maintained in his company has become traditional. All these companies bore the name of Company "E," and so Captain Vernon Snoots may well be pleased that he is named commander this year.

From the six-foot-two Cook in the first squad to the four-foot-seven Urciola in the rear rank of the last squad, every man has done his level best this year. With the influx of the February Cadets, the morale and spirit in the company took a decided turn for the better. Lieutenants Eugene Scribner and Harry Berg are two of the most competent "shavetails" in the brigade, and have contributed largely to the smoothness with which the drill has gone along during the year.

Year after year Company "I" has worked untiringly, but seemingly without success. We cannot boast of medals or ribbons, but as each cadet year closes we have felt that we have won something,—something that we can always keep, the friendship of our comrades. Through the bitter cold of January and the scorching heat of May, through our first days in the "awkward" squad to the time we proudly received our commissions, we drilled, often with suppressed complaints, but we always came back smiling. This year we are fortunate in having as our leader our former First Lieutenant, Captain Harry Slye. If the love and respect of the entire company and their efforts to crown his last year with success are factors in bringing about victory, we feel that our Captain will present us with the coveted ribbons.

The Girls' Auxiliary

EHIND the Cadet Companies of Business High School another company marches, not in blue suits trimmed in brass buttons, not on the field in the Annual Competitive Drill, but as a second line of defense, the Girls' Auxiliary.

Will any of the Cadets ever forget the splendid treats given them by the Auxiliary on drill days—the doughnuts and chocolate, the entertainment, and the happy cheers at the end? Long will they remember the January Dance—the gayly decorated gym, the dim lights, the Dagmoir music, their gay hostesses, and, last but not least, the banner presented to Company "I."

From the kitchen to the stage, the Auxiliary goes to present its talent in vaudeville. The plays they produce and the dancers and singers all make us believe that, possibly, some time in the future, Broadway may glitter with the names of former Auxiliary members.

And last comes that memorable evening in June after the Competitive Drill—the time of the Cadet supper. The gym, gay with flowers; the tables, tempting with delicious food; and the bevy of attractive waitresses must seem a worthy reward to the boys for their hard year's work. And who will ever forget the toasts and speeches which end the dinner and also a most successful year for the girls whose task it is to lend a helping hand to the B. H. S. Cadets?

The Amikeco Club

It isn't every girls' club, we assure you, that can have the Principal of the school for Faculty Adviser, and you may imagine how honored the Amikeco girls felt when Mr. Davis took us under his personal supervision last fall.

Just as the Girls' Auxiliary sponsors the Cadets of the school, the Amikeco Club entertains the athletic boys.

This past year we have given two dances—the first to the football players, which proved very successful and pleasing to the squad; the second, a combination St. Patrick's Day and Athletic Dance in honor of the basketball team.

We are now planning a third dance for the baseball boys, and the members of the committee are working hard to make this, their last dance of the year, the "hit" of the season.

The Bank

The Washington, D. C., High School Bank, Business High School, was organized in October, 1911. At the close of that year the capital was $2,200; now the capital is $22,000.

This year the bank has handled $90,000, $45,000 of which was deposited by the students. The books show an average balance of $20,000, with an average of $6,000 cash in each of three national banks of the city.

Besides the regular work, the Bank Staff handled the tickets for the school and alumni special programs. This year the Bank Staff has purchased a machine to bring the bookkeeping up to the present-day standard.

The Dramatic Association

During the first semester the Dramatic Association presented very creditably two one-act plays: Three Pills in a Bottle, by Rachel Field, and Finders-Keepers, by George Kelly. The cast of the former play comprised Sylvia Mink, Ruby Collins, Marie Poston, Sarah Korsover, William Keller, Virginia Kettley, Vernon Snoots, and Willard Higbie. Esther Huntington, Essie Raphelson, and William Keller played the parts in Finders-Keepers. The officers of the association for the first semester were Edna Adamson, President; Grace Wooden, Vice-President; Virginia Kettley, Secretary-Treasurer; for the second semester, Grace Wooden, President; Ida Berman, Vice-President; Esther Huntington, Secretary-Treasurer; Marie Poston, Chairman of Committee on Selection of Plays. Miss Galbraith acted as Faculty Adviser of the association and Coach.

"The Dummy" will be remembered as one of the most entertaining and successful spring plays Business has ever given. It might have been written to provide "Reds" Cohan with a fine part. In the words of one of the critics, he "tore through it like a fire in an oil yard." Esther Huntington's performance was equally brilliant in a part that afforded somewhat less scope. Grace Wooden, Marie Poston, Gilbert Potts, and Julius Wasser were prominent and effective members of the cast. Members of the stage crew who contributed as essentially as the actors to the success of the play were Alton Darne, Monroe O'Neil, Sam Felker, and Melvin Payne. Miss Galbraith and Miss Gunther were in charge of the production.

The Three Glee Clubs

The combined efforts of Miss Thompson and Dr. E. N. C. Barnes have made the Glee Clubs of Business blossom into the best group of songsters assembled in the school for some time.

Snatches of melody float from the gym on bright mornings, arousing curiosity as to what is going on behind the "swinging doors." The "swinging doors" of Business High School conceal something quite different from what similar doors elsewhere concealed a few years past. We drink in melodies, practicing weekly to get precision into our harmonizing, that we may pour it out to our friends for their enjoyment at operettas and assemblies.

For the first time in the school's annals, the Glee Clubs have worked up to both concert and operetta in the same season.

The membership in the Girls' Glee Clubs, both Senior and Junior, has been swelled to capacity this year to the beaming approval of Mr. Davis. Our Principal is a strong supporter of the Music Department, having written several songs which the Boys' Glee Club has presented at assemblies.

The Glee Clubs are still in their infancy, but are now beginning to extend into the outer circles of musical Washington through the outlets Miss Thompson is opening up for them.

The Council has added to its many activities "noontime dancing," which has proved to be very successful, because of the fine orchestra and the excellent student backing. We wish at this time to express our appreciation to the members of the orchestra for their splendid work.

In the Fall the Council was busy with football matters. Later came basket-ball activities, and in order to repay the team for its wonderful work, the Council financed a trip to Norfolk.

At the time of this writing, the Council is looking forward with great hopes for a successful Spring Play and the return of the Brown Cup to Business High School.

The members of the faculty of the Student Council are: Miss Mary Clary, chairman; Miss Grace E. Eaton, and Mr. A. J. McNish.

THE BOOK SHOP STAFF

The Book Shop

The Book Shop has again closed a most successful year through the efforts of Miss Lockwood, our very capable faculty adviser, and the students who so staunchly stood by.

During the past year we have branched out from the routine duties of buying and selling books, pencils, paper, and other material required by "budding genius." We started the "ball rolling" by purchasing an Underwood book-keeping machine on which a number of the students have taken lessons. In addition we entered the Harper's Best-Book-of-the-Month Club for the special benefit of the faculty, the books thus received being rented subject to certain rules. This phase of the work has been under the supervision of Miss Lockwood and Miss Davies, with the assistance of the Book Shop Staff. Finally we have, in true business fashion, kept a daily record of all our transactions, and at the end of the day, have deposited our money in the Business High School Bank.

We, the members of the staff, William O'Neal, Lois Thompson, and Lillian Ingram, turn over the Book Shop with the wish that the new staff may have the best success possible and in addition, as much fun as we have had.

The Lunch Room

Four years ago the lunch room started in room 19, under the direction of Miss McMahon. This enterprise proved to be so successful that, with Mr. Davis' permission, the old rifle range was equipped and fitted out as an arm-chair lunch room.

Thanks to the student body and the faculty, our lunch room has become even more of a success than we had anticipated, and the dreams of our advisers, that we may some day in the near future have a much larger one, are in a fair way to become realities, because the good food and the efficient service make a strong appeal to the student body.

Those to whom the lunch room owes its success are: Mrs. E. P. Smith and Miss Minnie F. Dean, faculty advisers, and its efficient manager, Mrs. Rose Baker. Members of the staff of the students are: Sophie Koutsoukos, Vernon Snoots, and Grace D. Wheatfield.

Football

S the '26 football season drew near, we remaining veterans of the team were worried as to its outcome because of the loss of our most valuable coach, Mr. Woodsworth. The squad had the material necessary for a good team, but without the proper coaching we uccess would be merely a dream. Our worry was short-lived bour felt that success would be merely a dream. Our worry was short-lived, however, for good fortune favored us by sending to our aid a very capable coach, John P. Collins, formerly an assistant to Coach Guyon of Eastern High School.

Mr. Collins proved his value at the very outset by obtaining a dressing room and practice field at Eastern High School for the team's daily drills.

One week before school opened, Coach Collins called for candidates for the team and was greatly pleased when about fifteen boys reported. Among this first squad were the following veterans: Anthony Stewart, Frank Davis, Charles May, Perry Early, Paul Dobrowolski, and Captain Randolph Shreve. The new-comers were: Revelle Jones, formerly of Tech., Bernard Jones, Albert Harrington, Albert Gelfeld, Henry Galotta, Eugene Tolson, Willard Higbie, Charles Silverman, and Blair Mullican. During the first week of school the squad was increased to about twenty-five.

After several weeks of hard training, we went to Alexandria, Virginia, to play our first game with the George Mason High School, of that city. Business was the victor in this game by a walk-over score of 45-0. The entire squad was used, but the playing of Bernard Jones at quarter-back featured.

The following week we opened the regular High School Series with Western High. Lady Luck frowned at us, and the resulting score was 7-0 in favor of Western. A game with Eastern followed, and as good luck and strong determination to win must follow bad luck and defeat, we won on a score of 25-6. In this game our fighting quarter-back "Charlie" May, scintillated with his brilliant generalship and ball carrying. The next game was with Swavely Prep School of Manassas, Virginia. Although the score was 16-0 in favor of our opponents, we were pleased at our ability to hold a team of Swavely's caliber to such a score.

Central High was our next opponent. This time our hope of a victorious outcome was high, but as the game closed the score of 3-0 in Central's favor was recorded, despite many protests from Business rooters, who felt that Galotta's forward pass had been completed for a touchdown for Business. A 15-0 victory was in store for us, however, in the contest with St. John's College the next week.

In the Tech game, which was the final one, Lady Luck was resting, and the score was 32-7 against us. We are not given to making alibis, but we do believe that the weakened condition of the team, due to a week's lay-off on account of bad weather, had much to do with our overwhelming defeat at the hands of the Techites.

Considering our poor facilities for training, and the many other difficulties which we were forced to overcome, I feel that we have had a very successful season, and that Business High School can well be proud of its '26 football team.

CAPTAIN RANDOLPH SHREVE.

Basketball

INDING "Coach" off duty in the dark little cubby-hole of an office down in the gym, I broached the subject of basketball, wishing to know what impression we had made on him during his first year at Business.

"Mr. Collins," I began, in the best newspaper manner I could muster, "what in your opinion, goes to make up a winning team?"

"The two most important factors, I should say, are adequate facilities for practice and enough men on the teams to insure the proper amount of action."

Of course, this was interesting, but not what I had come to find out. I abandoned generalities and came to the point. "What," I asked, "do you think of the past basketball series from the standpoint of Business?"

"Well," he replied, "as far as I am concerned, I think that the winning of only two out of five games is pretty bad. Of course, there was a loss of "Al" Harrington, which practically killed our hopes for a championship team. You know that with Al in the running, we could just about have beaten all of them. I'll have to admit, though, that the boys who were left surely did put up a game fight in the first two encounters. It was the loss to Central that seemed to kill their spirit. And speaking of "spirit," I want to say that no matter what the facilities for practice or number of players may be, these are of little value unless the team has the proper spirit and the determination to win."

"Do you think Business lacks these?"

"No, I shouldn't go so far as to say that, but I do believe that in some instances a little more of the 'do or die' spirit, especially in the matter of scholarship requirements, would have turned the score."

Agreeing to this, I asked what he thought of the outlook for next year.

"I see no reason at all why with Captain-elect Dick Keefer, Bernie Jones, Revelle Jones, Charlie May, Bob Marks, Jackie Lewis, Reds Cohan, and Bennie Denneberg as a nucleus, Business should not be well up in the running."

Come on, team, let's go for the 1928 championship!

Baseball

N March 10, Business High School had its first call for baseball candidates. It was surprising to see so many boys interested in trying out for the team under the supervision of Mr. Collins, our coach. Mr. Collins has been endeavoring to make sports one of the most important activities of the school, and through his efforts the boys are becoming quite enthusiastic. Thanks to our coach also, we have very "nobby" new uniforms which we have enjoyed showing off on every possible occasion.

We have back with us this year, Eddie Marosy, our star pitcher, who was elected captain by the remaining boys of last year's team, and we have hopes that he will pilot a winning team. Others of whom we expect great things are: Dick Keefer, our crack third baseman; Revelle Jones, a pitcher and outfielder; Harry Slye, our first baseman, although he is greatly handicapped by being a captain in the Cadet Corps, and therefore unable to practice regularly; Randy Shreve, another pitcher; Randolph Brady, who was a former Tech player, and Bernie Jones, the only infield regular from last year's team, a flashy little infielder who knocks the balls high and far.

At first practice the boys gave a very creditable performance and looked as though they might cause the other schools no end of trouble before the close of the season.

Girls' Athletics

ASKETBALL being the favorite sport among the girls, more than seventy-five turned out to do honors for their classes when the call was issued this season.

After several months of practice, semester teams were organized and captains and managers elected. These teams then played a series of fifteen games to decide the championship of the school. The Sixth Semester, under the leadership of Helen Dolan, captured the championship by eliminating all the other teams and thereby remaining undefeated for two consecutive years. The Fifth Semester losing only to the champions, took second place and the Eighth Semester sextet, which came within one goal of defeating the Fifth in the critical game of the series, finished third.

At the Spring award assembly the "champs" will be presented with the basketball banner, and a ribbon bearing the inscription "Sixth Semester, Basketball Champions, 1927," to be added to the banner. Letters are also awarded at this assembly to the girls Miss Saunders, our coach, recommends for the honor. To qualify for a "B" a girl must conform to the following requirements: Excellence in athletics, loyalty to the school and its ideals, and excellence of character. Last year the Sixths, then the Fourths, won the title, and as the Eighths next year, are prepared to defend their laurels again.

The captains and managers for the teams were elected about the middle of January. They are the following:

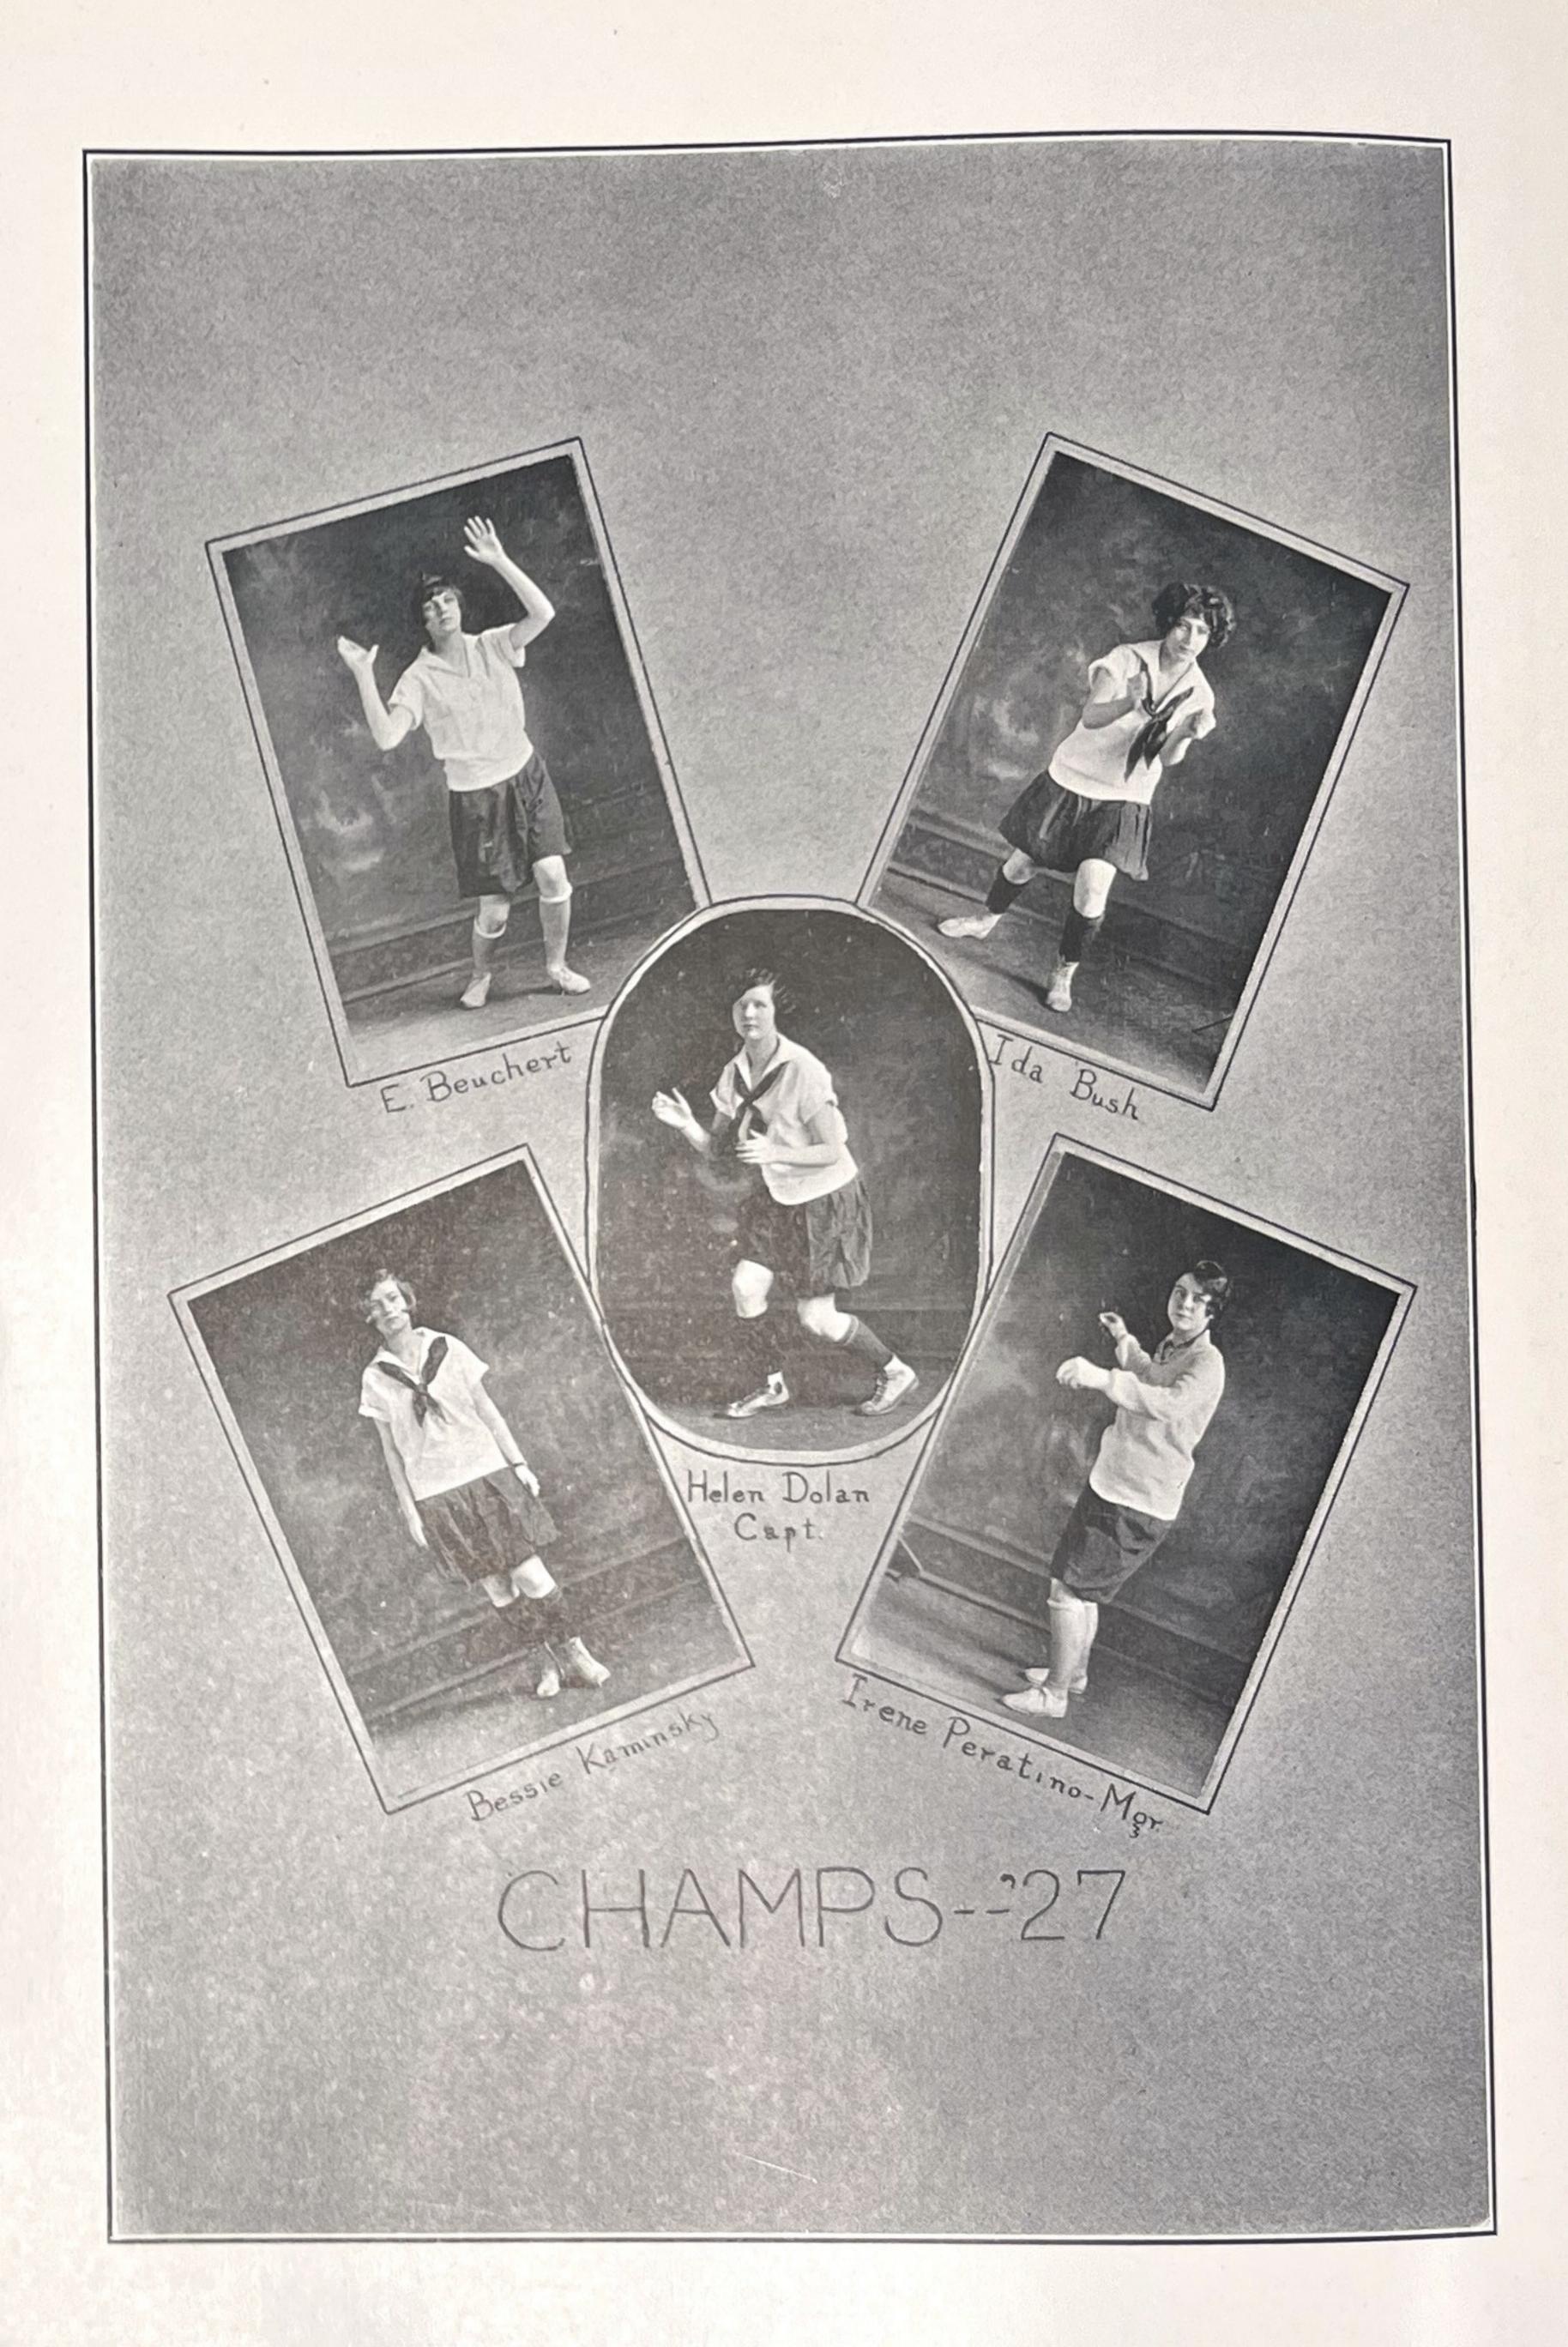

Semester	Captain	Manager
8th	LORETTA LANAHAN	EDITH HALL
6th	HELEN DOLAN	IRENE PERATINO
5th	ELLA THOMPSON	ELLA THOMPSON
4th	MARY GARLAND	PEARL RODMAN
3rd	HILDA HARRISON	RUTH ALLEN
2nd	MILDRED ALLEN	DOROTHY RABINOWITZ

There are about sixty girls reporting faithfully for basketball practices every Monday and Wednesday at 2:30. Each team is known as red, blue, white, etc., according to the color middle picked by the captains. These middles make a colorful showing all through the series. Teams will be selected some time in April and the series started around Easter.

The Fifth Semester have won the banner for two consecutive years and are planning to recapture it for the third time.
